Meeting Planner's Guide

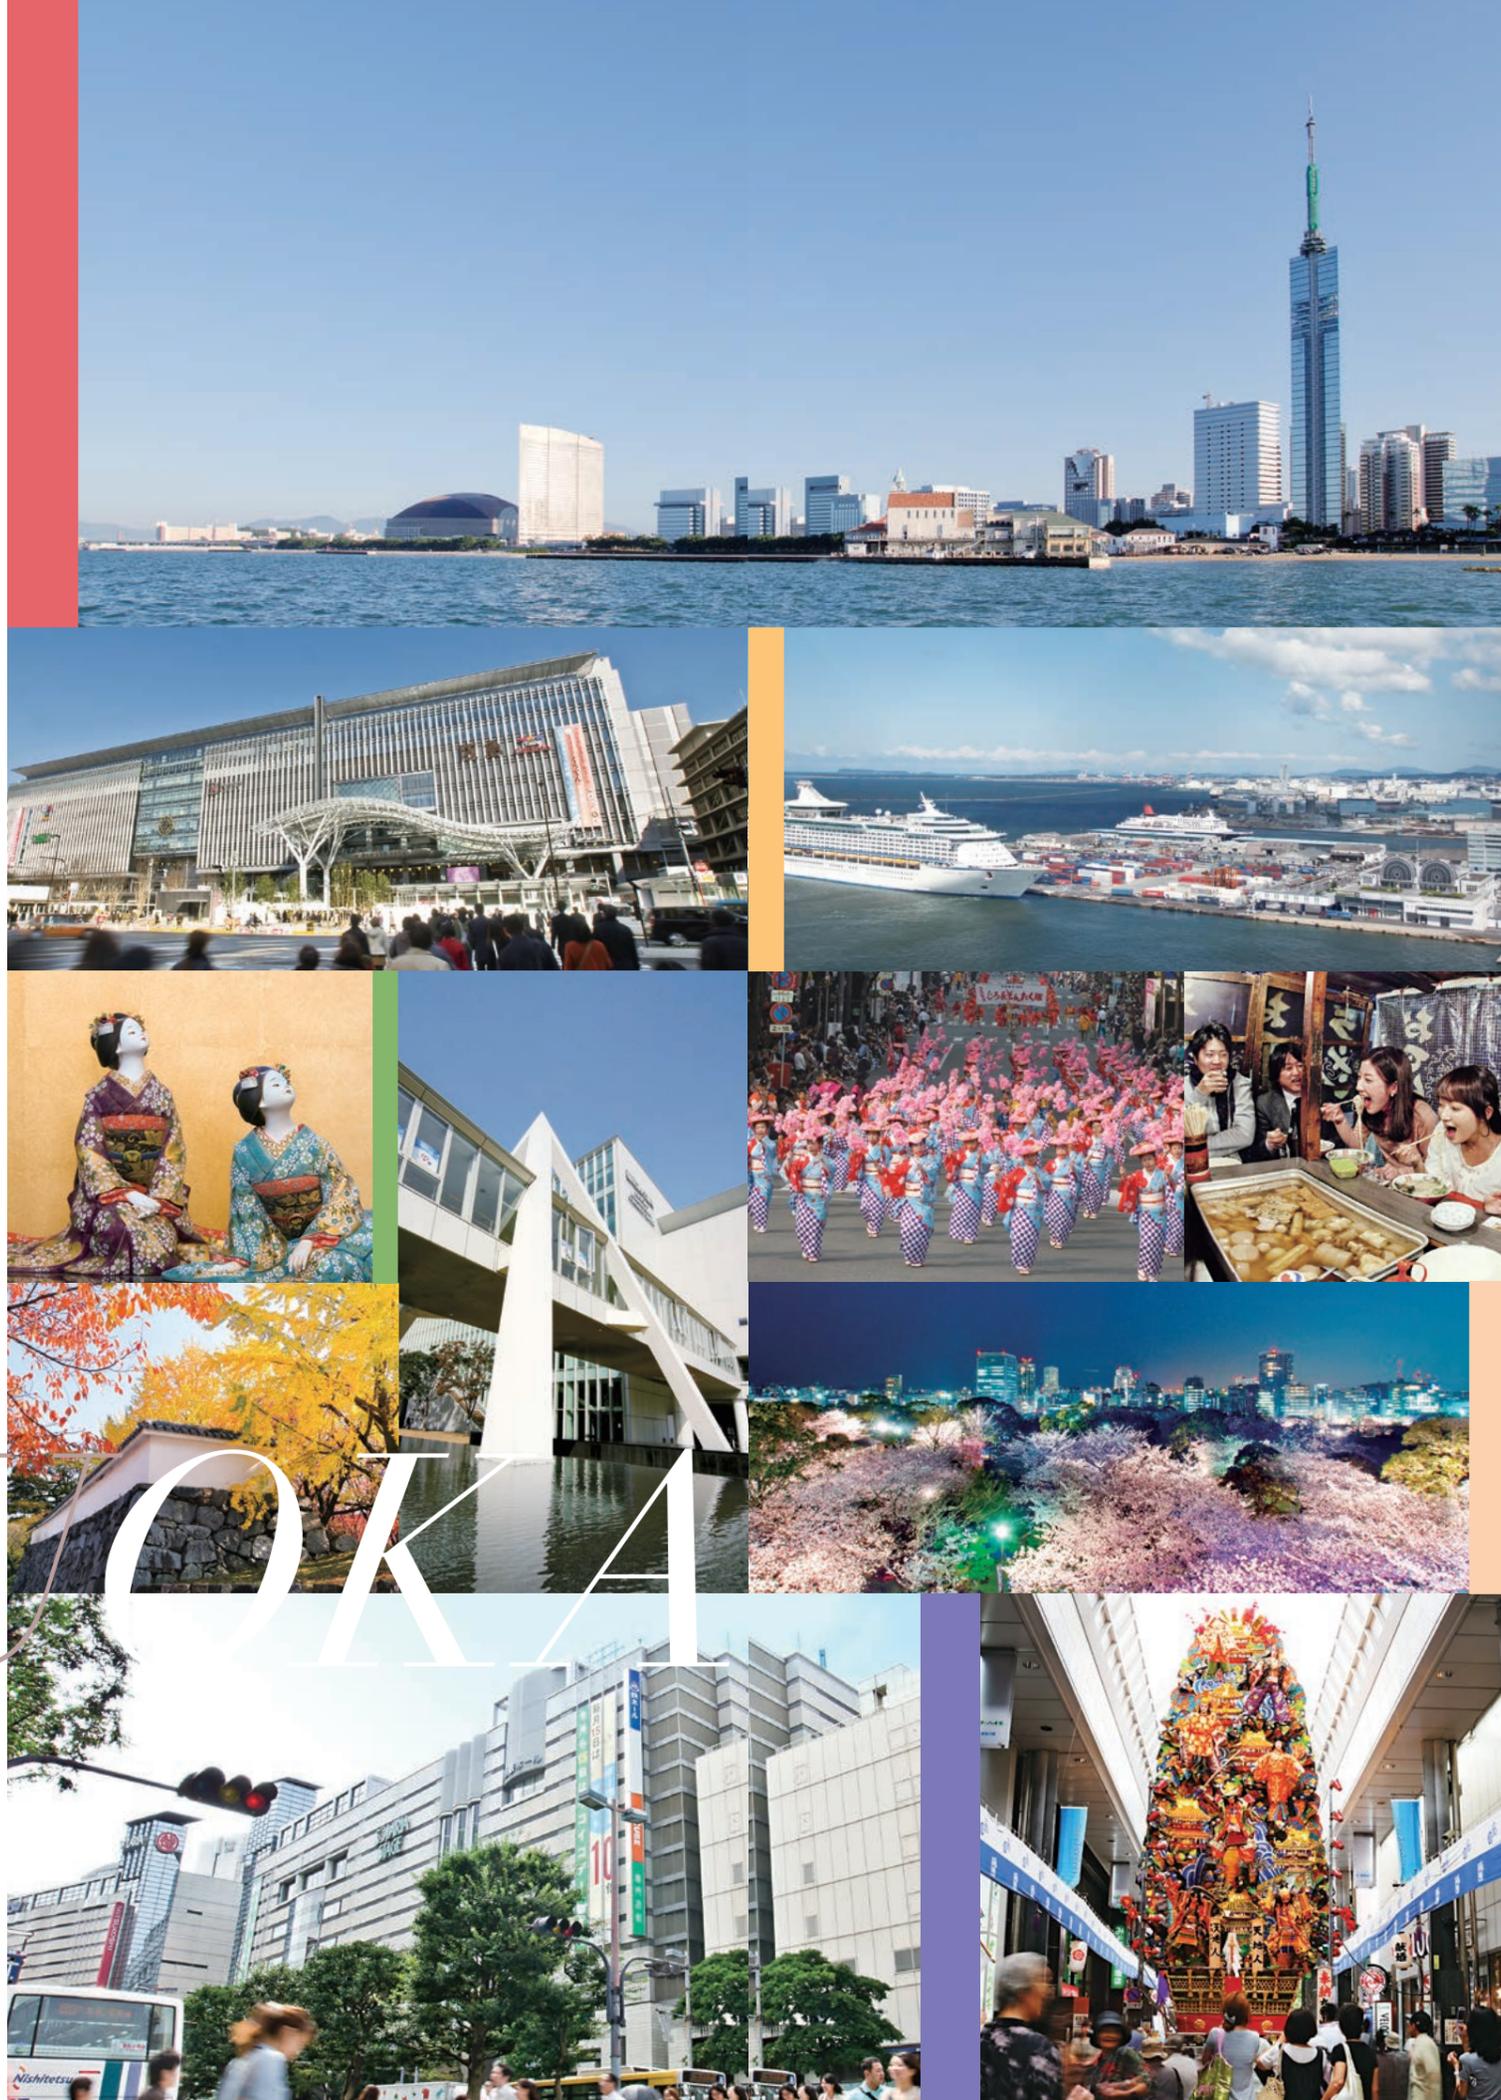

Welcome to Fukuoka

As a major point of exchanges with various places in Asia, Fukuoka has developed its own culture while maintaining a wonderful sense of hospitality known as "Omotenashi." The city boasts the nation's highest rates of population growth and young population. Among the major cities in Japan, Fukuoka draws particular attention as one of the most vigorous cities. Direct access to countries across the world, the convenience of compactly aggregated city functions and other factors provide the city with the advantage of being able to host various types of meetings, and therefore the number of international conferences held in the city was the second largest in the nation for 6 consecutive years*.

Fukuoka, a bustling city in beautiful harmony with nature, will bring a variety of experiences beyond your expectations.

Stress-free connection to the World and Asia

Major cities in East Asia are within 2,000 km of Fukuoka. There are many direct flights from overseas to Fukuoka. Fukuoka is the only city in East Asia that can hold international conferences in which foreign attendees can participate in one-day events and return home the same day.

By taking advantage of the convenient location, a number of important international meetings in the Asia-Pacific region have been held in the city, such as the historic "Japan-China-South Korea Trilateral Summit" held at the Kyushu National Museum in Dazaifu city in 2008. In addition, thanks to good connections to international hub airports, the access between European/American cities and Fukuoka is also easy.

Unique Venues

[Street Party]

Original venues specific to the Special Zone for Global Startups and Job Creation

In the bustling city endowed with an abundance of young human resources, a large number of events and exhibitions related to cultural and creative industries, such as game, anime, image, fashion and design, as well as social gatherings associated with meetings, are held. Unique venues making use of streets are also our huge advantage.
