Nature, culture and technology at the crossroads of the world

Bridging the Asian continent and the Pacific Ocean, Japan is perfectly placed for international meetings with easily accessible flights from all major global centers. Rich in nature, diverse landscapes stretch from the heights of Mt. Fuji, down south to the pristine waters and coral reefs of Okinawa and up north to the wide-open national parks of Hokkaido. Geographically compact, moving between islands, mountain peaks, and beautiful beaches couldn’t be faster or more simple. Japan’s mix of high tech know-how, ancient tradition and timely organization make it ideal to host all kinds of conferences and meetings.

Destinations

Seaside/Beach meetings
Okinawa sits between Southeast Asia and the main island of Japan making it the perfect place to be inspired by crystal clear water, warm sun and luxury breaks. With countless high-class resorts and hotels to choose from, the islands are packed with unique cultures and rare wildlife, including the Iriomote mountain cat, among many others.

Onsen meetings

Yamagata, also known as the kingdom of onsen (hot springs), in northeast Japan offers an enviable array of top-class ryokans and onsen across the prefecture. Famous for its volcanically heated hot springs, what better way to relax after a long day of productive meetings and networking than a soak that can relax you to the bone.

Sustainability

Urban mining of precious metal in Kitakyushu

The City of Kitakyushu has adopted an eco-industrial mindset to develop a resource recycling society. Clustered in the city are industries from all different sectors, including material industries, and science and research centers that take entrepreneurial approaches to recycling and work together to mine resources from waste products. One such initiative is “urban mining”, in which precious metals are extracted from old computers, servers and mobile phones for reuse in new artistic and business-oriented creations.

Pacifico Yokohama

Overlooking the seaside in Japan’s second largest city, Pacifico Yokohama is one of the perfect venues for major international conventions interested in sustainability goals. Sustainable seafood for dining, carpets made from recycled materials, piping creating to save water needed for flushing as well as re-using rainwater are just some of the ways this center provides the highest level quality in service, infrastructure, gastronomy and environmental friendliness.

Testimonials of The XXIII World Congress of Neurology

Prof. Hidehiro Mizusawa
President, National Center of Neurology and Psychiatry

The most important asset of Japan when it comes to international events is the reliability of the organizational bodies.

Prof. Raad Shakir
President, World Federation of Neurology

Our delegates from 122 different countries felt Japan and Kyoto were the most suitable options to hold our congress.
Unique Venues

KYOTO
Nijo Castle
Built in 1603, this castle is one of Japan’s most unique conference venues. The former Kyoto residence of Ieyasu Tokugawa, the first shogun of the Edo Period and the man attributed with unifying Japan, is filled with beautiful and rare art from the Kano School. The design of the UNESCO World Heritage Site is also striking as a flatland castle, a choice indicating the owner’s iron grip on power and lack of concern for defenses. Nijo Castle’s picturesque beauty is sure to make any meeting an unforgettable experience.

OKINAWA
Valley of Gangala Cave
A natural wonder in the south of Okinawa’s main island provides a novel and distinctive meeting place. The cave, inside a forested valley, has been transformed into a café and venue bringing visitors face-to-face with the full magnificence of the spectacle of its geological texture. Illuminated to highlight layers of stalactites and the depth of the rock.

NAGOYA
SCMAGLEV and Railway Park
Dedicated to high-speed rail travel, this park examines how trains have impacted society, economy, culture and lifestyle. Packed with life-sized rolling stock displays, including the Superconducting Magnetically Levitated Vehicle (Maglev), holder of the land speed record for rail vehicles, this venue provides a hands-on look into both the past and future of life on rails.

TOKYO
Hamarikyu Gardens
The lush green surrounds of Tokyo’s Hamarikyu gardens offer the rare chance for meetings surrounded by the charms of tea ceremony culture just steps from bustling downtown Ginza and Shiodome. The tidal gardens created in 1654 are home to the Nakajima Ochaya, a traditional tea house ‘floating’ over the park’s seawater pond. Once exclusively the realm of Japan’s early feudal rulers, Hamarikyu was opened to the public in 1946 and now welcomes events to enjoy the subtle depths of tea ceremony culture surrounded by exquisite ornamental gardens.
Testimonials

Contribution

I have always been impressed with the high level of Japanese technology. I would have to say that I own two cars now which are both of Japanese companies. I won’t name them but they are Japanese and I bought my first Japanese car in the eighties and I have been buying Japanese cars ever since. But that is not the real reason I come here for. It is because of the technology and the high level of science in the fields that I work in which is climate change and disaster risk reduction have very high level of research activity in Japan.

Mazda Regional Director

The hospitality throughout the 3 centre trip was superb; our Japanese hosts were charming and the experiences delivered were amazing – I would highly recommend a visit to Japan.

Beforehand everyone was excited, very few had ever visited Japan before so this was a new experience. Expectations were high and the actual trip more than delivered.

I continue to receive huge praise when meeting attendees of how we planned and executed the trip – they all describe it as a once in a life time experience.”

Gastronomic Experiences

Tokyo has more awarded restaurants than any other city in the world, and yet most of Japan’s best kept secrets remain out of the pages of guidebooks and just steps away, waiting to be discovered. Washoku - Japanese cuisine - is now recognized by UNESCO as a special world culture, every gourmand travelling across Japan can explore the diversity of regional culinary styles unique to these islands.

CSR Program

Coral regeneration business

Participants wishing to help the collective coral regeneration effort in Okinawa Prefecture can take part in the various activities trying to revitalize sea life in the area and recreate a beautiful environment for future generations. The initiative is supported by a panel of services provisioned to raise the community’s awareness of the importance of coral reefs in the balance of sea life.
